On behalf of the 3 million members of the National Education Association (NEA), thank you for all you do every day—in federal schools around the world—to educate and support our students. I fully understand answering that call has become significantly more challenging in the wake of the federal shutdown, during which you are not being paid.

You are not shouldering the shutdown on your own. As a member of the Federal Education Association, you have the full strength and support of NEA—the largest labor union in the U.S. We are using our power to push Congress toward a bipartisan solution—one that will put all federal employees back to work and allow you to serve our students, while receiving the pay, respect, and recognition you deserve as dedicated education professionals.

Sincerely,
