Hi Member,

As promised, here is your weekly update on key developments affecting FEA.

Contact Congress

We're urging you to contact Congress through the Legislative Action Center to oppose the harmful "Future-Ready" initiative, which proposes cutting essential school-based roles that support student learning.

As federal employees, you have a protected right under 5 U.S.C. § 7211 to communicate with Congress—as private citizens, not in your official DoDEA roles.

ACLU Lawsuit

We also want to highlight the ACLU lawsuit, filed with NEA and FEA support, defending your academic freedom and the right to provide students with a high-quality, truthful education.

If you've been impacted by restrictive directives, please share your story at feaadmin@nea.org. Your voice helps strengthen our collective advocacy.

Representative Assembly

The FEA Board of Directors, leadership, and staff will be in Portland next week from June 27th to July 7th for the Annual Membership Meeting and the NEA Representative Assembly in Portland. As a result, email and message responses may be delayed—we appreciate your patience and understanding during this busy period.

In solidarity,
Federal Education Association
